Are you in the southern Virginia area looking for some genealogy help? The Danville Public Library is the place to go! We offer a variety of resources that will help get you started with your research.

Research Facility

Located at 511 Patton Street, Danville, Va., the Danville Public Library has an extensive genealogy collection that you can access, even if you do not have a library card. Interested in checking out sites such as Ancestry.com and other databases without paying the fee? You can have free access using any library computer.

Be Prepared

If you are making a special trip, please call to make an appointment at 434-799-5195 Ext. 8, option 1 for the Genealogy Department and option 2 for the VA-NC Piedmont Genealogical Society. Cameras are welcome, and you are able to make copies of any records that you find. Computer prints are 10¢ a page for black & white and 25¢ for color. All microfilm copies are made by staff and are 25¢ per frame. Alternatively at the same cost, you may save to a USB drive or e-mail copies with the new microfilm machine.

Holdings of Danville Public Library

The genealogy department offers a wide variety of information that other libraries may not offer. We have city directories ranging from 1879 to present, local newspapers on microfilm from 1905 to present, local burial and marriage records, civil war military records, family histories, and more!

Collections of Virginia-North Carolina Piedmont Genealogical Society

You can also visit the Virginia-North Carolina Piedmont Genealogical Society, which is located adjacent to the genealogy room. The society was organized in April 1978 and is run by volunteers. Their holdings include over 2600 vertical files, 1300 family histories, historical and genealogical information for almost all of the counties in Virginia and North Carolina, and up-to-date cemetery records for all Danville public cemeteries. You can visit their website at <http://www.vancpgs.org> for volunteer hours and to make appointments!

Stop by and visit us here at the Danville Public Library anytime or e-mail Danielle Pritchett at pritchad@ci.danville.va.us. Visit our website at: <http://www.danvillelibrary.org>.
